Is wonderfully entertaining By Florissant64 I listen to this while commuting to work and it makes the time go faster. I especially enjoyed hearing Click and Clack's own mother on air. There is no doubt they inherited their love of laughter from her! 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five Stars By linda cox Great read

Moms have served honorably in the minivan wars. Negotiated conflicting advise between husbands and fathers. Now brothers Tom and Ray Magliozzi give mothers their due respect in this new collection of calls from Car Talk.

About the Author Tom and Ray Magliozzi, a.k.a. Click and Clack, the Tappet Brothers, are the hosts of NPR's Car Talk, a syndicated weekly call-in program broadcast nationwide to more than 600 stations and heard by over 3.3 million listeners. Winner of the Peabody Award, Car Talk has been providing advice on everything from car repair to marriage since 1977. Tom and Ray Magliozzi, a.k.a. Winner of the Peabody Award, Car Talk has been providing advice on everything from car repair to marriage since 1977. From AudioFile What do mothers and auto mechanics have in common? On this sixth collection of the best calls to "Car Talk," the popular NPR weekly show, Tom and Ray Magliozzi, often with the help of their own mother, attempt to settle domestic clashes involving strange smells, car choices, and driving lessons. The brothers are naturals in front of the microphone, with their comedic timing, their raspy Boston accents, and their outrageous laughs. The calls, coming from a decade of shows, are woven into a unified laugh-out-loud whole as Tom and Ray lead us from call to call--from Heidi, who wants a Mazda Miata and can't face the fact that what she really needs is a minivan; to Nancy, who can't trust her 27-year-old daughter to rotate her tires; and Terri, who needs to talk her 16-year-old son out of buying a "muscle car." For its addictive and side-splitting effects, these excerpts from "Car Talk" ought to come with a warning label. S.E.S. © AudioFile 2005, Portland, Maine-- Copyright © AudioFile, Portland, Maine
