MADRIGALI read the chapter on guide Tim Mosoff online and decided to buy the book immediately. Once I got the book I was pleased to see it was consistently excellent. The black and white photos are beautiful and the colorful characters who guide on some of our best waters really balance this book. Additionally, I picked up significant new techniques to try on waters I fish.I hope the authors put together another book on fly tyers who are as colorful and knowledgeable.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Fortunate to still be able to order this!By Linda DeeterBeautiful book with wonderful photographs and outstanding script.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Very well done bookBy R. KiddGreat book very well done, have read each one of the stories twice

The Colorado, the Snake, the Missouri, the Bighorn each of these great western rivers conjures images of catching beautiful trout under big open skies. This book is a thoughtful and candid portrait of 13 of the best fly-fishing guides in the West, offering a unique view of river life through the eyes of those who live there. From the South Platte to Henry's Fork, the rivers and fish these guides know are all depicted through stunning black and white photography and the guides' unique perspicives, capturing the essence of their adventurous lifestyles and illustrating how men and women can be shaped by the landscapes around them. The 13 guides featured are Dan Stein (Bighorn River), Terry Gunn (Colorado River), Patty Reilly (Snake River), John Flick (San Juan River), Pete Cardinal (Missouri River), Dave

Faltings (Silver Creek), Tony Fotopulos (Roaring Fork River), Rusty Vorous (Yellowstone River), Pat Dorsey (S. Platte River), Denny Breer (Green River), Tim Mosolf (Beaverhead River), Bob Lamm (Henry's Fork of the Snake River), and Kim Leighton (Yellowstone River).

...captures the rewards of the guiding life, as well as the rugged, beautiful landscapes in which these men work. --
