Great bookBy Diann KilburgYears ago I listened to the audio version of this title. I loved it then. Recently, a friend of mine needed some emotional support and I gave her a copy of this. She loved it, and it gave her some laughs needed. You can't help but enjoy this and all of her other books.DK

Grab your giggle box! Here comes Barbara Johnson with another helping heap of joy for women of all ages, aches, and "architecture." Author Barbara Johnson's encouraging book about a woman's adventures in aging, Living Somewhere Between Estrogen and Death, became the number-one best-selling paperback in the Christian market for the year in which it was published. Soon hordes of happy readers were flooding Barbara's mailbox with their own favorite jokes, touching stories, and hilarious tales of female misadventures. Now Barb has packed that amazing collection of wacky wit into this boisterously funny new book that's full of "laff leaks" about every stage of a woman's life?from diapers to dentures. No matter what stage of the "hormonal cesspool" you're splashing through, there's something here to touch your heart. You'll love Barb's quirky empty-nest de-cluttering strategies, her joyful insights on stress-soothing, husband-handling, kid-corralling, and parent-parenting in chapters like these: Having a Baby Is Like Writing a Book? Lots of Whining, Begging, and Pushing Who Are These Kids, and Why Are They Calling Me Mom? I Finally Got My Head Together? Then My Body Fell Apart We Started Out With Nothing? and Still Have Most of It Left Leaking Laffs Between Pampers and Depends is a heart-warming ride over the waves of humor in God's endless sea of love.

From Publishers Weekly Just in time for Mother's Day, this diverting hodgepodge from the bestselling author of Living Somewhere Between Estrogen and Death promises to tickle the funny bone while acknowledging the very real pain in many women's lives. Johnson, the "geranium lady" who has more than five million books in print, aims this new title not just at the "large print" sector but at women in every phase of life. Various chapters explore new motherhood, body issues, aging and marriage (which is "a great institution.... That's why so many women end up institutionalized"). Motherhood, she writes, "is like getting a life sentence in prison with no hope of parole," but children multiply the joy in life. Johnson eschews a traditional narrative in favor of a mishmash of humorous cartoons, widely circulated Internet stories and letters from readers, interspersed with musings from her own life and ministry, including behind-the-scenes incidents from the wildly popular Women of Faith tour, in which she is a featured speaker. She briefly mentions some of the tragedies of her own life, including the deaths of two of her sons, but the overall tone of the book is steadfastly upbeat. The final chapter ("Sliding Down a Rainbow into a Pool of Joy") gently explores death as a passage into eternity. Copyright 2000 Cahners Business Information, Inc.
