new cat friend, Lily, a new home with Malkie Maguire but Malkie's car and house are vandalized by someone unknown. Then the attacker gets inside and attacks his cat Samara. All the cats, including Lily, are traumatized by this series of events. Meanwhile, Leger's lady friend Ginger is very upset with him for leaving her alone. She tells him she doesn't want him to investigate any more crimes. To appease her, Leger agrees, but what about The attacks on Malkie, his girlfriend and poor Samara who is in the vet hospital? What should Leger do? Leger, the cat sleuth is up to his whiskers in this one with so many things going on at once. His Glasgow neighborhood is filled with frightened cats and outraged humans. The interactions between the various cats and the cats and humans are engaging and oft-times hilarious. The last line of this book had me laughing out loud. Highly recommended. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Lily's back! By Janet Walsh I love the Leger stories - they are easy to read and short enough to read in one sitting. The characters (human and critter) are easy to like and Leger's relationships and friendships keep growing. In this episode, Lily (the homeless calico molly he met on an island vacation and worked with to solve a murder) has come home with Leger - he kept her hidden in the family car for the trip home. Leger takes her to the home of a man who befriends cats, telling her she will be safe there. However, there is an intruder and when one of the other house cats is injured, Lily runs away. It's up to Leger, and his friends to discover who the villain is and stop the next act of violence even as it occurs. The rescued cats are safe and although Lily does not return to her new home, I suspect she will stay in the neighborhood, solving mysteries on her own and with Leger. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Leger's Secret By Janie Dills I thought I had reviewed this book but apparently not. Anyway, being a Leger fan, this book was true to form in satisfying my Leger fix. Leger his family are spending their Holiday @ Annabelle's with her niece family who live in Glasgow. Leger gets to reunite with his old friends again of course a mystery emerges. Leger goes to spend Christmas Eve night with his favorite molly, Ginger when they awaken on Christmas Day a box of newborn kittens are discovered by Ginger's bed. These wee ones need to be reunited with their mum as quickly as possible b/c they need feeding bonding with her. But who/where is the mother of these sweet wee ones? Thus begins another mystery for Leger to solve to solve quickly! He has some help from some of his friends but there are some twists turns along the way. I do not want to be a spoiler so to learn how this mystery gets solved, you will need to get the book. It's a heartwarming pleasant end to the Leger Christmas Trilogy!

Refreshed after his recent trip to the island, Leger is back in Glasgow but finds there are matters which require his attention. His girlfriend is angry that he disappeared to the island without saying goodbye and issues an ultimatum. Take a break from sleuthing or lose her. Leger must also find a home for Lily, the island sleuth who returned to Glasgow with him and it seems a local cat loving criminal, Malky Maguire, is the perfect person to adopt her. Undeterred by a series of break-ins and acts of vandalism at the Maguire home, Lily settles in and is soon part of the family. However, the vandal is not done with Maguire yet and just as Lily is getting cosy the culprit injures Samara, one of Maguire's feline family, during a break-in and Lily goes missing. Leger has no choice but to investigate this case and keep it a secret from Ginger. It's one thing to damage human property but he will not tolerate a human hurting an animal. Join Leger and his friends as they seek justice for Samara in the ninth story in the Leger Cat Sleuth Mysteries series.
