This book has to be the funniest I have read in a long time. I could relate to it deeply. As a cat Mom every chapter in the book had me thinking which cat I could relate it too. My husband and I deal with hockey of the jingle balls and Christmas ornaments in the middle of the night from one or more cats (we have 11) all rescues. We deal with cats who become battering rams. No matter what time of day or night. Silver Moon will use my husband's head battering him awake at about 4am. I have been recommending this book to every cat parent I know, because let's face it after some days with them we need a laugh. Hopefully someone will invent a fabric that cats can't destroy. We can only hope. If you are looking at these reviews and wondering if you should order this book, the answer is yes. Journey into an adventure for pet parents everywhere. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Laughing out loud

By L. Jones I am a lifetime member of cats in the house. There have only been 3 of my 60 years that I haven't been servant to at least 1 cat. We were overseas, didn't want to visit him for the first 18 months. This is so funny and so true its like our cats are Dena's. Great laugh out loud funny!

By Ann Libby I enjoyed this book. If I read ANYTHING at ALL that can in which I wonder if the character will be Ok after 6PM I actually will SLEEP WALK! So I now read books which have me smiling and yet entertained so it's NOT boring! This book is actually that! I DID Smile,,,,,I DID enjoy.

If You Own A Cat You Must Own This Book "The Erma Bombeck of cat writers!" Cotton mice found doing the dead man's float in the water dish... 5 AM wake-up calls... a "no-closed doors" policy... the cat declares a holy war when put on a diet. Lessons In Stalking hones in on the wildly different responses the author and her long-suffering spouse have to a life shared with cats. In no other cat book will you find such riveting accounts as: · The Great Cat Butt Wiping Adventure · Jingle Ball Horrors · The Creature Under the Fridge · Yoga Cat · The Big Brown Mouse Other Toss Our Cat Loathes The Perfect Gift for Cat Lovers!

"Dena Harris has written a cat book even a dog would love." --Tim Bete, director of the Erma Bombeck Writers' Workshop and author of In the Beginning... There Were No Diapers "Never has watching someone else own a cat been this much fun." --Lisa Allmendinger, Editor, I Love Cats! "Captures perfectly the nuances of life with cats!" --Rita Davis, Editor, Cats Kittens From the Author! I've been allergic to cats most of my life, but that didn't stop me from bringing Lucy, our first cat, home. I found her when she was three months old, outside, the night before the first frost of the year. I'd never been around a cat for an extended period and my husband was raised in a petless environment as well. Needless to say, we were in for a few surprises. These stories are about our life with cats (we were crazy enough to bring a second one into the house). I'd say every story is 90% accurate with just a bit of stretching thrown in for laughs. The Great Cat Butt-Wiping Adventure? Happened. Mice in the waterdish? You betcha. I can't make this stuff up. I've been told the stories are as much about marriage as they are about cats. I'd agree. I tried to write them with that "Erma Bombeck adopts Garfield" feel to them. Neurotic and demanding as they are, I wouldn't miss out on having cats. When I'm scratching behind their ears and they've got a big purr going, it makes me smile no matter what my mood.. I mean, really, how many chances do we get in life to make someone that happy? I hope you (and your cats) enjoy the book!
