Teall'm madder than Dolly Parton in a training bra at all these stupid questions is asking me in the review form, but I love the book.5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. It all takes me back...By Zelig Nicto an age when America was good; The Weekly World News was still on the newstand racks and two-thirds of my diet was made using transfats. However, one man (Ed Anger) was prophetic to the ill winds that were coming just around the corner. A lot of people could, and do, become docile in times of peace and prosperity. Ed Anger always knew that our relative peace was being undermined, be it by hippies, stupid students in stupid schools, liberals, and French Restaurants. If only more people were as in touch with the pulse of America. If only there were a few more resolute people watching out for us, telling us how it is, and not being afraid of being blunt and pig-biting angry... maybe then The Weekly World News would still be around. Maybe Hillary Clinton would've won the election with the aide of here extraterrestrial lover P'Lod. Who knows? We can only speculate. Will Anger's columns be studied like the eerily accurate prophecies of H.G. Wells and Edgar Casey? Will they be viewed as political texts alongside "The Prince" and the various works of John Locke? I can only hope that yes, yes they will. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Laugh Out Loud Funny Sometimes Deep - Recommended By C. Hill "Let's Pave the Stupid Rainforests Give School Teachers Stun Guns: And Other Ways to Save America" turned up on my bookshelf, and I really don't know who brought it into my house. That being said, I'm very glad they did as this is one of the funniest political satire books I have ever read. Ed Anger takes a look at the problems facing the country (from a 1996 point of view) and provides "unique" solutions that are often quite creative and oddly disturbing all at the same time. The title is giveaway to where this book leans, but there are shots taken at just about everyone, including Space Aliens. This is political humor from over 10 years ago, yet it still resonates in today. Recommended!

Ed Anger is mad--pig-biting mad!--and he's not gonna take it anymore. As America's angriest--and funniest--columnist, Ed pushes the conservative envelope. In fact, he tears the envelope to shreds. His Contract with America promises the right to smoke anytime, anywhere; a fresh credit slate for every American man, woman, and child; and a gun in every holster. It's crazy, but it just might work: Knock Down the Statue of Liberty and Put a Lock on Our Borders Now! GI Joe Is a He-Man Toy, Not a Doll! I'd Rather Live Next to a Prison than a Public School! Let Doctors Wheel and Deal Like Used-Car Salesmen! Let Our Kids Balance the Federal Budget! Weekly World News, the black-and-white tabloid read by more than 2 million people a week, is world-renowned for breaking the story that Elvis is alive and for its reports of UFO sightings. Ed Anger, the paper's star columnist for over 13 years, generates hundreds of pieces of reader mail each week with his sharp and painful opinions about...everything.

Wimpy environmentalists are crying big fat tears because a bunch of headhunters in Brazil are chopping down some trees to make a little extra spending money. These fruitcake Chicken Littles believe if we chop up jungles there won't be any more air and we'll all die. Hogwash! They can PAVE the darn rainforests for all I care. Let's face it. The first thing our Founding Fathers did when they landed on America's shores was start cutting down trees. George Washington and Thomas Jefferson were farsighted enough to know that you can't build shopping malls in the woods, for crying out loud. Our great nation doesn't have one single rainforest and I'm breathing just fine, thank you. If the rainforests are so healthy, then why in hell are all the people who live there trying to come here? And another thing. The nuclear plant protesters who scream doom and gloom about the rainforests are the same nutcases who believe in this ozone stuff. You know, there's supposed to be a hole in the ozone layer over the North Pole or something and we're all supposed to get cancer and die because it lets too much sunshine in. Phooey! It's supposed to be caused by all those cans of spray paint we've used to make America more beautiful. So let's just put ozone in spray cans and sell it to these scaredy-cat environmentalists. These yellow bellies could just spray it into the air and patch the hole over the North Pole in no time flat. I mean, how difficult can it be to put ozone in a can? And while I'm on the subject, I'll tell you another thing. These bleeding-heart nature freaks say they want to save the rainforests and all that stuff for our children. That's a crock. Ask any red-blooded American teenager where he'd rather be--in a nice air-conditioned shopping mall playing video games or slapping mosquitoes in some godforsaken jungle?
