Whimsical, Yet Wise.By SpyderClever little tome.The author keeps to the traditional rhythm and meter of the traditional limerick.Sometimes provokes a chuckle and other times some reflective thought on the state of the world.It's not easy to address important issues with humor and brevity, but

Benjamin the Donkey nails it. 5 of 6 people found the following review helpful. Best. Limericks. Of Doom. Ever. By Gail Zawacki. Loyal online followers of Benjamin the Donkey's whimsical, incisive "limericks of doom" have been lucky to come across the Internet blogs that showcase his sharp wit. Now they will rejoice to find he has published a compilation of his most clever and penetrating works in hard copy at last. A slender volume in perfect gift size, its modest dimensions are nevertheless replete with his trademark gentle but mournful gallows humor. Whether you already know or merely suspect that humans are relentlessly ruining the earth in myriad ways, Ben's richly concise pronouncements will leave you in no doubt, and laughter too. Enjoy having your own book and order a few extra for friends who are on the verge of enlightenment...wait, what...you don't remember what Orwell wrote of Benjamin the Donkey? "...things never had been, nor ever could be much better or much worse hunger, hardship, and disappointment being, so he said, the unalterable law of life." sample: Rational Animals: An Oxymoron What logical reasoning gave us since we came from the cave? Sure got lots of ink and changed how we think but not the way we behave. Order it now, it's only $3.41! 3 of 4 people found the following review helpful. Essential Reading for Near Term Extinction. By K. C. Just like Ford Perfect knew there were essentials to carry on his trips through the Universe, there is an essential book to have on hand for the times ahead of us. This is the book. Priceless! The Vade Mecum for the coming extinction we have prepared for ourselves.

Limericks about global warming, peak oil, nuclear meltdown, human nature, fate, and the Sixth Great Extinction.
