Stan Feld : Lusty Limericks before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Lusty Limericks:

My mom told me not to read this naughty book! If you are open minded and dare to laugh with an open mind at this locker room 'tom foolery", enjoy this racy humor in this concealed brown bag facsimile. The writer enjoyed this form of bawdy limericks to go from the sublime to the ridiculous. September 6, 2011

About the AuthorStanislaw Feld was born on November 11, 1911 in Przmysyl, Poland. Throughout his life, he was a voracious reader. He spoke several languages. He loved to discuss politics, philosophy, religion and tell jokes. His favorites reflected the workplace, the cultural idiosyncrasies of people and the "locker room" themes of these limericks. His enthusiasm for learning new things, exercising his mind and body regularly with the motto, "If you don't use it, you lose it" continues to be an inspiration to his family and friends.
