Catheryn J. Brockett : The Dysfunctional Family Survival Fun Kit (Mega Mini Kits) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Dysfunctional Family Survival Fun Kit (Mega Mini Kits):

Gage GiftBy Bigfish48This is that interesting present to give the mother in law, after a few years of marriage to her daughter, or vise versa. This is for the inlaws. This really made for an interesting conversation at the dinner table on Christmas. Won't see them for another year!1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. You need this.By Norman R. HarrisThis kit has saved my life. Many times.I used to be the sort of person that always got drawn into the drama, only to make things worse. No more! Now I take out my (well worn) deck of cards, apply the "my eyes are open - I am listening to you" eye mask and take a power nap. If somebody prods me for a response, I just flip over the next card, read it out loud, and go back to sleep.Now my family thinks I am the great listener that they have always wanted. "Oh Wise One, we come before you to solve our dilemma!"Ok. Shuffle the deck so they will never catch on. Possible responses include:1. Hmmm.2. That must have been difficult for you.3. (And always the LAST card) If I talk anymore about this my head will blow up.My only complaint is that the flask is a little small for the level of dysfunction my family has. So I had to buy 2 kits.

For the grown-up who heads back home for the holidays and other occasions, here is a "Survival Kit" to keep them laughing (and coping!) for the entire visit! The "Coping components" include a hip flask, a deluxe eyemask (which gives the impression one is actually listening), one set of "Just Deal" Conversation cards, and a 32-page book chockfull of fun games and activities.
