Andrew Struthers : The Green Shadow (Transmontanus series) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Green Shadow (Transmontanus series):

The amazing good times and bad times he faced are so well written, that you feel it as though you were there. If you ever wanted your life put into perspective get this one. I can't believe he hasn't published anything since! Yet, hopefully.

A hilarious, illustrated account of life in the previously sleepy town of Tofino, during the heated controversy over the proposed logging of BC's Clayoquot Sound. The Green Shadow, which was originally serialized in the Georgia Straight, earned Struthers a 1995 National Magazine Award for Humour and a nomination for two 1995 Western Magazine Awards. In 2004, Struthers published a followup to this story, The Last Voyage of the Loch Ryan. The Green Shadow is number 3 in the Transmontanus series.

About the Author Andrew Struthers grew up in Scotland, Uganda, British Columbia, and Japan. Struthers works as a filmmaker and writer, and lives in Victoria with his daughter Pasheabel.
